66. The presidential system of government is superior to the parliamentary system.
67. Denominationalism is a detriment to Christianity.
68. Concentration of capital in the hands of a few is dangerous to the welfare of society.

Of course if any really good question develops between now and fall we'll include that in the voting, too, even if it isn't on this list. I'm certainly anxious that we should get a live issue for debate this coming year.

Thirteen Unlucky?

We have never had a year in which provincial conventions have been held in all the provinces until this year. Here's a little sketch of the growth of provincial conventions.

The idea of holding provincial conventions in the off-convention years originated in the national convention of 1922. It took definite form in 1923 when the first convention of this nature was held at Southwestern College, Winfield, Kansas. This convention included the chapters in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, together with some non-Pi Kappa Delta schools that were invited to participate. Two other conventions were held this year; one for the Central Western Province at Westminster College and one for the Northwestern Province at Aberdeen.

In 1925 five conventions were held. The Oklahoma group met at Stillwater, Oklahoma; the Missouri-Iowa Province at Culver-Stockton; South Dakota at Mitchell; California at California Institute of Technology; and the Kansas Province at Emporia.

In 1927 the number increased to eight. The Kansans met at Ottawa; the Iowans at Iowa Wesleyan; Colorado-Nebraska at Hastings; Province of the Sioux at Beuna Vista; the Oklahomans at Pittsburg, Kansas; the Province of the Lakes at Michigan State; the Carolinians at Wofford; and the Province of the Upper Mississippi at Hamline.

And now in this good year of 1929 there have been 13 conventions out of a possible thirteen, conventions having been held in every one of the provinces.

ERROR IN FINANCIAL REPORT

In the March issue of THE FORENSIC an error was made in the financial report of the Secretary-Treasurer in regard to the receipts from Pittsburg Teachers College at Pittsburg, Kansas. The report should show: "Fees, $24.00; keys, $30.25."

130 P. K. D. CHAPTERS AND ONE MORE STATE ADDED

We have just granted two new charters. The first goes to Sam Houston Teachers College at Huntsville, Texas. It is Texas Kappa, No. 129. The second to Millsaps College, Jackson, Mississippi. It is Mississippi Alpha, No. 130. That puts another state on our list. Our correspondent at Huntsville is Earl Huffor, and at Jackson, L. L. Wheelless.

The dates for their installation ceremonies have not yet been set.

What Becomes of Our College Orators?

WE WERE interested in discovering what has become of some of our college orators after their successes in oratorical endeavors. We discovered that those in charge of national oratorical contests have not, for the most part, kept a very close check on former winners, particularly of those of a few years ago. This of course is impossible unless the contestants themselves inform headquarters.

THE NATIONAL INTERCOLLEGIATE ORATORICAL CONTEST

On inquiry to the National Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest on the Constitution, we have the following information:

The winner of the 1928 contest, Carl W. Albert, is continuing his studies at the University of Oklahoma, where he made a scholastic rating of 100 for the last half term of 1928.

Mr. H. J. Oberholzer, winner of the 1927 contest, a native of British South Africa, participated as the representative of the North Carolina State Agricultural College. He returned to South Africa where he was for a time engaged in business. He is now part-time instructor in the Department of Speech at North Carolina State.

The winner of the 1926 contest, Charles T. Murphy, representing Fordham University is now studying law at Harvard University.

The 1925 winner, E. White Bakke, representing North Western University, when last heard from was studying in Paris with the intention of returning to the United States to enter social service work.

The national office states that each of their four national winners has made an excellent showing scholastically. They point out that these people have not been "on their own" long enough to furnish any basis for judging their capacity for leadership, two of them being still in college.

Of the 28 national finalists in the last four years of the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest on the Constitution, eight are studying law, two for the ministry, one medicine, one engineering, three are in business, eleven continuing their academic studies and two engaged in occupations unknown to this office.

INTERSTATE ORATORICAL ASSOCIATION

The Interstate Oratorical Association is the largest and oldest in the United States. Contests have been held every year since 1874. They seem to have kept much better record of their finalists than have other oratorical associations. They are able to give us information concerning their winners who are now listed in "Who's Who." Investigation concerning their winners, made some time ago includes twenty-nine annual contests up to and including 1902. Winners of first and second places are considered, making a total of 58 orators. Of this number twenty or slightly more than one-third appear in "Who's Who in America."

1. Olin Alfred Curtis, deceased; one-time professor in Drew Theological Seminary; second place in 1876 representing Lawrence College.
2. S. Frank Prouty, Congressman; address, Des Moines, Iowa; second place in 1877 representing Central University of Iowa.
3. E. A. Bancroft, lawyer, general counsel International Harvester Company; first place in 1878 representing Knox College.
4. Robert M. LaFollette, deceased; United States Senator from Wisconsin; first place in 1879 representing the University of Wisconsin.
5. Richard Yates, ex-governor; governor of Illinois, 1901-5; address, Springfield, Illinois; second place in 1880 representing Illinois College.
6. Charles F. Coffin, lawyer and life insurance official; address, Indianapolis, Indiana; first place in 1881 representing DePauw University.
7. George L. Mackintosh, educator; President of Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Indiana; second place in 1884 representing Wabash College.
8. Albert J. Beveridge, senator, author; United States Senator from Indiana; first place in 1885 representing DePauw University.
9. H. H. Russell, clergyman and reformer; address Westerville, Ohio; second place in 1886 representing Oberlin College.
10. John H. Finley, educator, editor; President, College City of New York, 1903-13; President U. State of New York, 1913-21; Associate editor New York Times; first place in 1887 representing Knox College.
11. Henry Morrow Hyde, author; address Simeon, Albemarle, Co., Va.; second place in 1888 representing Beloit College.
12. Edwin Holt Hughes, bishop; Bishop in Methodist Episcopal Church; first place in 1889 representing Ohio Wesleyan University.
13. J. A. Blaisdell, educator; President Pomona College, Claremont, Cal.; second place in 1889 representing Beloit College.
14. S. W. Naylor, educator; Dean, Lawrence College; first place in 1890 representing Washburn College.
15. F. A. Fetter, educator; Professor of Economics, Cornell University; first place in 1891 representing Indiana University.
16. Guy Everett Maxwell, educator; President, Winona State Normal, Winona, Minn.; second place in 1891 representing Hamline University.
17. Mrs. E. Jean Nelson Penfield, lawyer and parliamentarian; address, 34 Pine Street, New York City; first place in 1892 representing DePauw University.
18. C. F. Wishart, educator; President Wooster College; first place in 1894 representing Monmouth College.
19. Perl D. Decker, Congressman; U. S. Congressman from 15th Missouri district; first place in 1897 representing Park College.
20. Oscar Edward Maurer, clergyman; Pastor Central Church, New Haven, Conn.; first place in 1902 representing Beloit College.

THE INTERCOLLEGIATE PEACE ASSOCIATION

The Intercollegiate Peace Association through the donors, Mary and Helen Seabury, of 414 County Street, New Bedford, Mass., inform us that there are many former winners of these contests from whom they never hear. They state there is one former winner who is now a college president, a strong peace worker and lecturer; another is a professor in the Harvard Law School, who a short time ago came to the city of New Bedford, Mass., to lecture on the World Court; another who also reported recently as owning two newspapers and running for the legislature on a peace platform, losing by only a small vote. Others are teaching forensics, one of these not long since having trained a new winner of the Peace Contest. One winner has gained a Rhodes Scholarship on the strength of his International Peace oratorical success. Several have become ministers, one a strong social worker, another a writer of Peace articles for a prominent magazine.

A Japanese who won the National Contest of this association in 1910 wrote the donors at the time: "It is my purpose in life to enter the field of practical diplomacy and to devote my life to the advancement of International Peace." In 1925 this Japanese was the manager of "Toya Kisen Kaisha" in California. At that time he was giving peace addresses before San Francisco audiences.

Word from another prize winner to the donors is as follows: "I am pursuing a Master's Degree in Speech. The subject of my thesis is "The Development of Intercollegiate Oratory in the United States." The donors inform us concerning another winner of the National contest—a South African who won the contest after being in this country only one year. He wrote his oration first in his own language and then translated it into English. On his return to South Africa he expected to go into government employ.

The Misses Seabury whose generosity has made possible the prizes for the International Peace Association Contests, which contests were begun in 1904, related interesting personal experiences given them by former contestants. They close their letter with this statement: "We hope our prize winners are standing as sentinels across our fair land, ready and able to recede the approach of wicked war."

NORTHERN ORATORICAL LEAGUE

The only available information we have regarding winners of this organization is that one year President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin won first place and during the same year Professor Louis Ecke of the Department of Speech, University of Michigan was the second place winner. We shall be interested in investigating further the question "What becomes of our college orators?"

In view of the experience and very inadequate information regarding the winners of the various oratorical contests, would it not be advisable for Pi Kappa Delta to guard the records of its own national winners in justice to them and for the history of our organization? Some organizations publish the list of their winners from year to year as a part of their national constitution. Can't we do the same?

Baylor U. on Long Debate Tour

BAYLOR University, Texas Iota chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, and one of the newest chapters in the Lower Mississippi Province, has just closed one of the most successful seasons in its forensic history. Installed in December, 1928, the Baylor chapter initiated fourteen charter members, six of whom have received the degree of special distinction.

Under the supervision of Dr. L. W. Courtney, forensic director, the Texas school has just returned from a debate tour which carried them through ten states and into two foreign countries. Of the twenty debates held in these states, only five were lost by the Baylor squad, composed of Phil Teeling, Frank Guittard, and Frank Wilson. Three of the contests were no decision, and the remaining twelve resulted in decisions for the Texas school.

Among the institutions met by the Baylor representatives in their 7,000-mile journey were state colleges in Arizona, California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and Oklahoma.

Contests were judged by radio audience, by critic judge, by committees of judges, and by audience decisions. The entire season comprised 28 debates by the Baylor chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, in which only seven were lost by the Texas school. Last year, Baylor had the distinction of having its representative, Harold Knop, win first place in the Texas State Oratorical contest. This year, the school will be represented in both the state and national contests. Plans are being made by Dr. L. W. Courtney, forensic director, to send a delegation to the National Convention in Wichita next year.
