Folks & Facts . . .

Dave Bemmels, right, one of the founders of KTJO, the Ottawa University radio station, recounted some stories of the early days of radio at the university to Duane Pifer, a Topeka senior who is general manager of the campus station, during the third birthday party of the new station recently. This year also marks the 50th anniversary of radio broadcasting at OU, which began in 1942 when Bemmels, then a physics professor, and several students built the original KTJO. A 50th anniversary celebration is planned for the spring.

Barry King announces at KTJO tower ribbon-cutting ceremony as Brad Johnson and Jeaneen Layton look on.
