WHO'S PREPARING YOU?

The music program at Ottawa University combines the necessary academic discipline with constant involvement in real-world performance experience, all under the guidance of internationally trained faculty.

Our instructors possess degrees from conservatories in London, Seville, and Amsterdam, and have performance experience in orchestral and choral conducting, opera, accompaniment, and church music.

Applied lessons are also given by adjunct faculty of distinction.

"The OU music program provides for both music majors and non-majors a thorough professional training and experience, all within the enriching context of a liberal arts education."

Steven McDonald,
Assistant Professor of Music and
OU Orchestra Director
