

WON IN 2ND HALF

Braves Behind, Forged Ahead To Beat Wesleyan—Snyder Was Stopped.

Fighting their way ahead in the second half after a slow first division, the Ottawa University Braves staged a belated fast-breaking attack to beat Kansas Wesleyan by a 28 to 24 score on junior high court Saturday night. The victory assured the Braves of at least third place in the Kansas conference race.

After spending the first half feeling each other out and getting their range on the basket, the two quintets opened up after the intermission. Neither team could connect at first and it began to look like a low-scoring contest until the Coyotes began dropping in short shots in the closing moments of the half to lead, 11 to 8, at the recess.

Whatever Coach Dick Godlove told the Braves between halves worked like a charge of dynamite, for it wasn't over two minutes before his charges had tied the count and gained a precarious lead. Lyman Morgan, sandy-haired forward, set off the dynamite with a quick set-up following a Wesleyan free throw that made the score 10 to 12. Then Lyle Swetnam, guard, came in for a short one to tie the count, and the somewhat meager crowd came to life. Lanky Omer Brenton reached high for a pair of set-ups and the battle was on.

The Braves held a lead that was never less than four points for the rest of the game but there was always the fear that Cletus Snyder, slim, dark-haired Coyote forward, would repeat one of his previous scoring sprees. There was the problem, too, of getting past the hulking form of Everett "Doc" Walsh, one of the most relentless guards in the conference. Snyder had scored a couple of nifties in the first half and the fans were on edge for fear he would mess up the Ottawa lead any minute.

A recipe for stopping Snyder, however, apparently was included in the inspiration message Coach Godlove gave his boys between halves. Whether for that reason or because he just couldn't hit his stride, the lanky threat was able to score but once in the second half. That basket was a pot shot in the later stages of the game. It was Watson who developed into the principal Coyote scorer besides nabbing rebounds and guarding Lyman Morgan. Brave forward, in relentless fashion.

Despite Watson's guarding, however, Ottawa's fast breaks were working and the Braves kept rolling the ball in with set-ups and shots from the side. Brenton's set-ups and tip-ins gave him high point honors for Ottawa with 8 points. Watson of Salina topped him by a free throw. At one time the Braves were leading by a 22 to 14 margin.

The victory avenged the 38 to 35 win scored by Wesleyan in a game that saw Snyder bucket 8 baskets. Wednesday night the Braves will take on the league-leading Baker University crew on junior high court in the season's finale.

A long shot by Norman Gerhold gave Sigma Delta Pi a 33 to 32 victory over Delta Phi Delta in a rough-and-tumble preliminary contest. Barrett Whitacre, Delta Phi coach, was forced to don one

A Quartet Trip — The Ottawa University male quartet returned early this morning from a whirlwind trip through central Kansas. The group presented evening concerts at Great Bend Wednesday night, at Sterling Thursday evening, at Hutchinson Friday and Saturday evening and Lorraine yesterday. Thursday and Friday they sang at several high schools. Sunday morning they sang at Hutchinson First Baptist church and over the radio yesterday afternoon. Claude Webb accompanied the quartet. Dr. Andrew B. Martin, president of the university was with the quartet yesterday and spoke at Hutchinson and Lorraine.

MUST PREPARE FOR MARRIAGE

REV. DAHLBERG DISCUSSES "BUILDING CHRISTIAN HOME"

Being Right Person As Important As Getting One, Speaker Tells O. U. Students

"Marriage is not so much getting the right person as it is in being the right person," said Rev. Edwn T. Dahlberg of St. Paul, Minn., This morning at Ottawa University in opening a 3-day student institute on "Building a Christian Home." He will be in Ottawa tomorrow and Thursday. On Thursday evening a meeting will be held at First Baptist church to which the public is invited.

Elaborating on his theme this morning Rev. Dahlberg told the students that in considering marriage individuals must have a good physical being, a good emotional being, and a good character and intellectual being. Few marriages, he said, could be entirely happy if man or wife were physically unfit.

"A great many people are still emotionally tied to their mothers' apron strings," Rev. Dahlberg commented in emphasizing that people need to be emotionally prepared for marriage. He gave by way of example an account of two young people in St. Paul, whom he has been advising. "Both are fine physically and mentally, but have been so pampered and spoiled at home that they do the most childish and emotionally immature things; and so they are suing for divorce," he said.

He speaks at the morning chapel service, each afternoon he will hold a forum discussion, and each evening will give an address. Tonight students and faculty will join in a dinner to be held at the university at which he will speak.

The institute is under the auspices of the Christian Associations of the university. Miss Marjorie Schober is chairman of the committee. It is planned to hold an institute each year to consider Christian problems.

IN SEASON'S FINISH!

Baker Comes to Ottawa Tomorrow Night for Final Court Contest, Determined To Win.

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 on the junior high school basketball court two long-time rivals, Ottawa University and Baker University, will renew their rivalry with the final game of the Kansas conference season for both teams.

Baker has sent word that the entire town of Baldwin, except for a few small children, will attend the game as a tribute to the prowess of the conference-leading Wildcats, four of whom will be playing their last conference contest for Baker. That together with the usual good crowd of Ottawans who attend Baker-Ottawa contests should mean a filled gym. Reserved seats are now on sale at the North American coffee shop. There is no advance in the price, the 40-cent admission charge remaining in effect.

It goes without saying that the Bakerites are favored to win. They hold a victory scored over O. U. earlier this season as proof of that. Furthermore, four will be playing their last game. Heine, Schrey, Beiser and Quear will be shooting against Ottawa, ancient rival, for the last time, so they should be in a mood to play fast ball.

The young Braves, however, have been improving with every game and have at times flashed form and ability that has been good to watch. Their start in conference play was not too convincing, but in the last games they have played such good ball that they have climbed into third place with five games won and four lost. With every game their confidence in their own ability has been increasing.

The enticing feature of all Baker-Ottawa games is that no one ever knows just what will happen. Dope does not mean everything. Last fall Baker was expected to win the annual football game but Ottawa reversed the dope and won by a pair of touchdowns.

O. U. IRISH FESTIVAL

The social board of Ottawa University will sponsor another all-school social in the form of an Irish Festival on Friday evening, March 12. The program, under the general direction of Miss Kathryn Proffitt, will feature Irish folk dances by the entire student body. Each housing club of the university will share in the program and prizes will be given the best presentation from both the women's and men's clubs. Miss Sallie Harris is in charge of decorations and Mr. Richard Conard is chairman of the refreshment committee.

CLOSES CAGE SEASON

O. U. Meets Baker Here Tonight in Crucial Game.

Ottawa University tonight closes its cage season by meeting Baker University on the junior high school court at 7:30 in a game which will decide whether Baker has a clear claim to the Kansas conference title. The game will start promptly at 7:30.

Baker will be taking no chances of losing the game. The Braves are anxious to win. They are confident they are a much better ball club than they were a few weeks ago, offensively and defensively. Coach Richard Godlove will probably start Lyman Morgan and Adrian Miller at forwards, Omer Brenton at center, and Eugene Harding and Lyle Swetnam at guards. Coach Emil Liston of Baker will start Beiser and Quear at forwards, Heine at center, and Rudolph and Schrey at guards. All of that group but Rudolph will graduate this spring. All members of the Ottawa squad have at least two more years of competition.

This game recalls a situation of two years ago. Ottawa came up to the final game needing a victory to win the championship just as does Baker tonight. Baker had a young team coming up mightily fast. They smashed into Ottawa and halfway in the second period they held a 35 to 25 lead. But in that last 10 minutes the Braves led by Gerald Barker came from behind to win the game and the championship amidst a scene of hectic excitement. No Baker fan will ever forget the driving type of play the Wildcats staged that night. And certainly no Ottawan will ever forget the inspired last half rally the Braves sponsored.

GAVE BAKER A SCARE!

Ottawa University's Rally Tied Score Near Finish—Wildcats Won 41 to 38.

Baker University defeated Ottawa University last night, 41 to 38, on the junior high school court. That statement indicates a close game but it by no means tells the reader what actually happened. It cannot tell you that Baker piled up a big first half lead, that the Ottawans made the most spirited rally in the last 10 minutes of the game that the town has seen this year, that a great Baker team was practically played off its feet, and above all it does not describe the hectic scene created by the spectators as they split their voices yelling.

The real excitement took place in the final 10 minutes as Coach Dick Godlove's Braves drove down the stretch to a 38 to 38 tie. The walls of the crowded gym fairly shook from the noise the fans created.

Baker piled up a 29 to 17 lead as the gun for the first half sounded. The Braves in that half were setting their defense and waiting for the Baker attack to present itself. But in the second period the Ottawans reversed their style of play and went out after the Bakerites. For a while it seemed that this would not work, for Baker slowly but surely increased its lead to 33 to 18 and seemed destined for an easy victory. The all-over-the-court defense of the Braves, however, plainly was worrying the Wildcats. They could not get their offense set and every shot was a big effort even with their coolness and experience.

The electric scoreboard indicated that 10 minutes remained to play when the Ottawans released their supreme effort. Adrian Miller leaped under his own basket and neatly tipped in a bucket to bring his team's total to 21. That was nothing to worry a great Baker team, for the opposition is bound to get a good shot now and then. In another minute this Miller leaped up again and tipped a rebound into the basket to bring the score to 23 to 33. Baker's Beiser observed the score and noted that the gap between the two totals was not so large. Only 8 minutes to play and a 10-point lead; shucks, nothing to worry about. A second or two later this Baker bulwark picked a free throw off Morgan's foul.

That score was hardly through the net before a flashing guard by the name of Swetnam drove down the court, around a Baker defensive man and into the basket for a set-up. Quear picked up a free throw and the score was 25 to 36. Surely Ottawa could not catch the Baker team; still nothing to worry about. But Miller, doggone him, again leaped high for his third tip-in and Baker was worried aplenty. At this juncture Beiser fouled for the fourth time and went out of the game as Harding converted one of the free throws to bring the score to 28 to 36. The loss of Beiser was a blow to the Bakerites and one could see that they were determined to make the 8-point lead stand up for the remaining 7 minutes of the game. But their morale was badly shocked.

make the score 38 to 34 for his team. One minute and 45 seconds remained to play. Harding drove in for a set-up and Swetnam went in for a short shot to tie the score at 38—all amidst such scenes as only can be enacted at Baker-Ottawa contests. Slightly more than a minute remained to play.

Now let it be said to the credit of this truly great Baker team that by some force it pulled itself together in the final minute of play to win the game. Heine grabbed the ball beneath his own basket and went out to lay in the winning shot. Schrey's free throw with 8 seconds to play sealed the victory.

There is no discredit to the Braves for losing the game. They are a bunch of youngsters, as basketball players go, meeting an experienced and capable group of accurate shooters. All of the Ottawans in that last half covered themselves with glory as they played Baker off its collective feet. The rally staged in the last 10 minutes fell short of its objective only a few points.

For Ottawa the scoring of Miller and Swetnam was outstanding, each bagging five goals for 10 points. Brenton made a total of 9 points to outscore his rival center, Heine, who had 8 points. The work of Harding at times was superb and he scored a pair of baskets. Pennington, playing only a short while, scored one basket. Seymour, Mattis and Morgan did some excellent floor work. The ball handling of the latter figured strongly in several scoring plays.

For Baker the work of Beiser was outstanding. His first half shooting gave his team a big advantage. When he went out of the game in the last half his team seemed to be completely lost until the final minute of play. The victory gave the Baldwin school a clear title to the Kansas conference championship.

Visitors last night included Charles D. Erickson, former O. U. coach and now at Washburn in Topeka, and Lloyd Dalton, assistant coach here in 1934 and 1935.

Kansas Conference as Good as Best—O. U. Not Invited To Enter K. C. Tourney.

By CLAUDE WEBB

There can be no question about the calibre of the basketball played in the Kansas conference being on a par with that played in other leagues in the state this year. As a rule the Big Six and the Central conferences, since they are composed of much larger schools, play better basketball. But the facts of the case this year show that Baker, Kansas conference champion, holds one victory over K. U., Big Six co-champion. And C. of E., runner-up in the Kansas conference, Thursday night scored a victory over Pittsburg, co-champion in the Central conference.

As it looks on paper right now College of Emporia holds an edge for the conference championship next year even though they do lose Lee, a high powered guard. But the Presbies may be pressed by none other than our own Ottawa University Braves. Remember, that's all on paper and it is quite a long time until the next season rolls around.

O. U. will not enter the college tournament to be held soon in Kansas City for the reason that they were not invited. After the game the locals gave Baker the other night, organizers of the tournament probably would not prefer to have any fly in the ointment of plans. Thirty-two teams are being invited from this section. You can take it from this writer that in this part of the middle west there are not 32 college teams better than O. U. and if you insist we will cut that number down about half and then argue with you on a bunch of them. Don't worry, though, for Mr. Godlove would not take his boys to the tournament anyway. Today he is packing away his suits in moth balls.

Every man on the O. U. team has at least two more years of competition. If all make the grade scholastically and return to school, they will make a mighty flashy ball club; that is, they can if they show the improvement they have registered this year. Any young ball club still has a lot to learn at any stage of its career. Overconfidence has wrecked many a team.

All-over-the-court guarding and fast breaking offense powered the Ottawa team against Baker in the second half of the game Wednesday night. That type of play bothered Mr. Liston's crew to no end and they barely were able to eke out a scanty 41 to 38 victory.

Adrian Miller's second half rebound work along with his scoring were high points in the Braves' attack. Swetnam played his sweetest game of the season in getting five baskets. Incidentally, Rule Seymour came through with some of the best basketball he has shown this season.

Rudy Beiser of Baker is one of the best natural basket shooters ever to appear on an Ottawa court. His one-handed, over-the-shoulder hook shots sent shudders through the Ottawa fans, because they knew that no guarding, no matter how good, could stop that sort of scoring.

Practice Debates.—The Ottawa University forensic squad will engage in two practice and demonstration debates tonight. Chester Fleming and LeRoy Cowperthwaite will debate Irene Ruskin and Frances Easton before a meeting of the Field Parent-Teacher association. Paul Whiteker and Norman Godbey will meet Leonard Sizer and Kenneth Huyck before members of the O. U. Contemporary Affairs club. Both debates will be on the Pi Kappa Delta question: "Resolved, that congress should be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry."

RESIGNS AT O. U.

Dr. Fogdall, Popular Teacher, Accepts Pastorate at Clarks Grove, Minn.

Dr. S. P. Fogdall, professor of history and government at Ottawa University since 1931, late yesterday resigned his position effective at the end of the present school year, to accept the pastorate of the Baptist church in Clarks Grove, Minn.

Dr. Fogdall is well acquainted with the community into which he is going, having spoken there on many occasions. The town was originally settled by Danish people and since Dr. Fogdall is a Dane by birth, he will have much in common with the people of his new field.

Before coming to Ottawa Dr. Fogdall was for 17 years head of the department of history at Des Moines University and for two years in a similar position at Penn College in Iowa.

While at Ottawa Dr. Fogdall has been one of the most able and popular teachers. In addition to his popularity in the classroom he has been much in demand as a speaker in Ottawa and throughout the state. Business clubs have heard him speak on current economic and government questions frequently. He has spoken in many Baptist churches in the state and at present is part-time pastor of the Waverly Baptist church.

President Andrew B. Martin this morning expressed deep regret over the resignation. No persons are being considered for the place as yet, but Dr. Martin said the university would make a strong effort to secure a man, if possible, as capable as Dr. Fogdall.

March 9, 1937

Ottawa.—President A. B. Martin announced today the resignation of Dr. S. P. Fogdall, head of the department of history and government at Ottawa University, effective June 1. Doctor Fogdall will become pastor of the Baptist church at Clarks Grove, Minn.

FOUND MISSING RING

Two Hundred Joined Mrs. Bergstresser in Hunt

The proverbial search for the needle in the haystack took place in reality last night at an Irish festival held by Ottawa University students in the gymnasium. Toward the end of the affair Mrs. Karl Bergstresser, wife of a professor, lost her wedding ring among 50 bales of straw which had been brought in for the occasion. Two hundred students and faculty members joined in the search. Several bales of straw were taken apart straw by straw and students crawled all over the gym floor in a frantic search. An hour of looking failed to bring results and Mrs. Bergstresser gave up hopes, but Mrs. Stuart M. Pady another faculty wife, discovered the article as she was preparing to go home. All of which proves that the needle in the haystack can be found.

March 13, 1937

Two hundred students and members of the Ottawa University faculty attended the Irish festival held in the university gymnasium last night. The party which featured Irish decorations as a background, was sponsored by the social board of the university, in commemoration of St. Patrick's day. Miss Kathryn Proffitt was in charge of the arrangements, and Mr. Bill Maloney, freshman, acted as master of ceremonies. The program included stunts presented by the various housing groups of the university, piano-accordion music furnished by Mr. Randolph Bundy and Irish solos by Miss June Fockele. Prizes were given the Alpha Phi Beta club for the best stunt from any men's club, and to the Pi Kappa Chi group for the best among the women. The men's group presented a mock trial, featuring a breach of promise suit. Mr. Tad Hascall, playing the part of the girl who had been "stood up," stole the show. The women's group won their prize with a skit entitled "Abie's Irish Alphabet." Irish games, played by the entire group, and refreshments completed the evening's entertainment.

ROBERT QUICK COMING

Noted Violinist On O. U. Orchestra Program March 31

Robert Quick, noted violinist and concert master of the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra, will be guest soloist at the Ottawa University orchestra concert to be held in the university auditorium on March 30.

Prof. Everett Fetter, director of the O. U. orchestra, was elated over the coming of Mr. Quick saying, "He is one of the outstanding musicians in the middlewest and each year makes many solo appearances. We are fortunate in securing him for this occasion."

One of the features of the orchestra concert will be the playing of Grofe's "Mississippi" suite. This 20th century American music speaks for itself through harmonies and rhythms that, while decidedly not jazz, reflect contemporary American "popular music."

The 20th century American music is for itself through harmon- ous and rhythms that, while de- cidedly not jazz, reflect contem- porary American "popular music."

Bernhart and Fogle To Fight It Out Tomorrow.

Two wizards of the checker- board, Dr. Arthur Bernhart of Ot- tawa University and Arza Fogle of Williamsburg, will fight it out be- tween 4 and 6 p. m. tomorrow in the championship match of the tournament sponsored by the WPA playground project. Dr. Bernhart, who is professor of mathematics at O. U., goes into the finals as a slight favorite be- cause of his clean sweep in tour- nament play. The professor out- moved every one of his opponents for 10 straight wins, as against nine victories and a defeat by Fogle. Some of the players who had registered failed to appear. Dr. Bernhart and Fogle also will stage an exhibition game in which both will be blindfolded. The final match and exhibition will be in headquarters of the WPA project, over the Monarch billiard parlor, and spectators will be ad- mitted free.

O. U. IS ASKING ONLY $5,000.00

CALLS ON C. OF C. FOR A SMALLER SUM.

Last Year $10,200 Was Raised. But Improved Conditions Have Lessened Needs.

Needs of Ottawa University would be met this year by $5,000, slightly less than half the sum raised in a drive last year, Presi- dent Andrew B. Martin told the Chamber of Commerce directors at their luncheon in the North American hotel today. Dr. Mar- tin and four members of the O. U. board of trustees met with the directors to urge that a drive be made for the required sum. M. H. Forester, a trustee, also spoke in behalf of the drive. The proposal was taken under advisement. Last year $10,200 was raised in a drive. Trustees at the luncheon, besides Forester, were A. Willis, B. F. Bowers and Clar- ence W. Hegberg.

IN A FREE THROW TIE

Two Groups Even at O. U.—Intramurals Near End.

Ottawa University's intramural tournaments neared an end yes- terday, as the free throw tourney was completed, and the wrestling tourney had reached the semi- final stage in nearly every class. The badminton tourney is still progressing through the second round. The free throw tournament ended in a tie between the Alpha Phi Beta and the Delta Phi Delta.

OLD TIME PLAY BY O. U. JUNIORS

"STREETS OF NEW YORK" PRESENTED ON MARCH 31

Hero, Heroine and Villain March Across Stage in a Comedy-Melodrama

The junior class of Ottawa Uni- versity in presenting its annual class play, "The Streets of New York," on March 31 will dig far back into the past of the Ameri- can stage and bring out an old fashioned melodrama, complete with slinking villain, tin heroes and soft-voiced heroine. The comedy is a revival of an old play by Dion Boucicault first present- ed at the Wallack theater of New York in 1857.

In recent years many of these old comedy-melodramas have been received much to the de- light of theater-goers. Of "Streets of New York" John Mason Brown in the New York Evening Post said, "It is a comedy-melodrama of the wood-wind school of yes- teryear, a thing of paper snow storms and insidious asides, which boasts a heroine who is sweet in- nocence itself, a hero who exudes nobility, and a scowling villain whose every appearance is a cue for catcalls and hisses. But in spite of the hooded footlights, the mock playbills, and the incident- al music for which the produc- tion calls, it is at once the young- est and oldest play in town. For all its good-natured spoofing of the past, it is not just an idle joke on grandma. Its panic stricken chronicle of hard times and high finances is as timely as if it had been written yesterday."

Prof. Evan A. Reiff is directing the play and the following jun- iors will be in the cast: Earl Pen- nington, Kathryn Proffitt, John Sheldon, Gordon Fogdall, Nay- deen Bowlby, Joe Lynch, Edith Clemmons, Richard Reese, Ken- neth Huyck, Martha Barnhardt, Carl Lyons and Dorothy Mae Bower.

The play is now entering its last week of rehearsal. It will be presented in Memorial auditor- ium.

defeated George Lister, and Bob Harrop defeated Leo Updike, thereby assuring the Sigma Tau Delta group of at least one championship, since all four semi- finalists are members of that club.

Morgan and Brenton Were at Top in Court Season Just Closed.

Lyman Morgan and Omer Brenton led the scorers of Ottawa University in the basketball sea- son just closed. Each of these point makers had 134 points scored in 20 games. Coach Dick Godlove announced this and also gave out other statistics of the season.

The team won 12 games and lost 8 which was right fair for a new coach and a new squad. Graduation last year took most of the squad, so Godlove had to start in with a bunch of freshmen and sophomores. Their start was not too encouraging but their play during the latter part of the sea- son was amazingly improved. In a conference where all the teams were good this year the Braves finished third by winning five games and losing five. In the non-conference games the Braves won seven and lost three.

At the first of the season Ly- man Morgan was the only reliable scorer, but by the latter part Brenton, Miller and Swetnam were clicking in nice shape.

The scoring:

	FG	FT	Pts.	F
L. Morgan	48	38	134	39
Brenton	54	26	134	38
Miller	44	32	120	33
Swetnam	28	12	68	19
Harding	18	10	46	20
A. Morgan	10	15	35	12
Pennington	11	1	23	8
Mattis	3	9	15	6
Seymour	2	3	7	5

The free throw summary was interesting in that it showed Bill Mattis and Lyle Swetnam to be the most accurate free throwers and that the Braves won four games via the free throw route and lost only one by that method. The squad as a whole made 161 free throws out of 322 opportu- nities for an even .500 percentage. Opponents counted 120 out of 478 tries for a .478 percentage which showed the Braves to be a bit steadier. Incidentally the per- centage difference may have been in the four games which the Braves won by free throws. Here is how the various players looked on free throws:

	Tries	Pts.	Pct.
Mattis	10	9	.900
Swetnam	18	12	.666
Miller	54	32	.592
L. Morgan	66	38	.575
A. Morgan	30	15	.500
Seymour	6	3	.500
Brenton	59	26	.440
Harding	37	10	.270
Pennington	7	1	.142

The record reveals that L. Mor- gan received the most oppor- tunities to shoot free throws. He was closely trailed by Brenton and Miller.

The spring commencement sea- son will not take a single Brave from the roster. So unless scho- lastic difficulties or other obsta- cles develop the squad will return intact to the court sessions next year. All of the players mention- ed above will letter with the ex- ception of Earl Pennington. He did not play in enough games to earn a letter. To receive a letter a player must play in 50 per cent of the halves, and must also pass in 12 hours of work during the semester in which he played.
