Karl E. Mundt, Eastern Teachers, South Dakota Theta, made a good impression at the convention. He gave a very pleasing address at one of the dinners. Karl has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the governorship of South Dakota. While he is not taking the matter very seriously yet, he made friends at Lexington who should be of help to him if he ever does toss his hat into the ring. While he may not have had the political display in the lobby in mind, his promise, if he is ever governor, to pardon J. D. Coon shows his appreciation of the efforts of his friends.

National Counsel J. D. Coon, who used to be engaged in the business of sending people to jail when he served as State's Attorney in South Dakota, was of course interested in the courts and jails. After finishing up with some committee work late one evening, he gathered up a party consisting of former National Vice-President J. D. Menchhofer, Coach Wilbur Moore of Colorado Aggies, and the Editor of the FORENSIC, and started over to visit the city jail about midnight. Being something of a wag, he barged right in, thrust his convention badge under the nose of the assistant chief of police who was in charge, and stated, "I'm an attorney attending this convention of college kids over here. I hear you had to pick up some of them for getting drunk. I was sent over to see about getting them out of jail and keeping their names out of the papers."

"You're mistaken," replied the police officer very seriously. "We haven't had one bit of trouble. There hasn't been a complaint from anybody. That's the best behaved convention we ever had in the city. They're all real ladies and gentlemen."

After this, introductions were made and the visit became more informal. The police took the delegation on an inspection of the jail, the shooting gallery, and the machine gun and gas bomb equipment.

"Mind is immortal. Mind is imperial. It bears no mark of high or low, of rich or poor. It asks but freedom. It requires but light."—From an Address to the People of New Jersey by a Committee on Free Public Schools, 1838.

The training of the speaker should begin in boyhood and should be part and parcel of the lessons of the school. John Quincy Adams.

The care lavished on the Kentucky race horses in order to produce Derby winners is remarkable. No expense is spared. The temperature of the thoroughbreds is taken every day. The purpose is to develop a horse which can run a mile and an eighth in a second or two less than it requires other horses to get over the same distance. It's all right, it's all right. I won sixty-five cents on the last Derby myself. But a Henry Clay means more to his city and nation than all the Men o' War Lexington will ever produce. Yet we now and then hear criticism of the amount spent on forensics. Although more is spent on a horse than an orator, it does require effort and care to make a student into an eloquent and forceful speaker. The nation can't trust to luck that orators will develop. No one tries to produce Derby Winners without care and training.

For distance traveled in attending the convention all rewards should go to Coach Chas. T. Battin and his delegation of five students who drove from the College of Puget Sound to Lexington. It took them six days to cover the three thousand miles. If you will look at a map, you will see that they crossed more than three-fourths of the United States. Two weeks of hard driving, a thousand miles of mountains and two thousand miles of plains, and then back over them. And yet there are people who will tell you college forensics are dead.
