

O. U. AND TOWN HAVE KEPT PACE

BAPTIST COLLEGE WAS FOUNDED IN 1865.

Both Have Enjoyed Fine Growth,
And O. U. is One of State's Best Small Schools.

Ottawa and Ottawa University were not much back in 1865, the year in which O. U. was founded. In a way the town was more or less framed; that is, practically all of the buildings were frame and the paving was good old Franklin county soil. Those were the days when boots and saddles were a reality and not just a song. Pioneers and Indians were many, big guns boomed quite often, and the land was not much in the way of development but wore a long suit of promise for a brilliant future.

The university had its beginnings in just as humble a way as did the town. The founders led by John Tecumseh Jones started it up in a frame building at Second and Hickory streets. Everyone had a lot of hope for it and in the years following turned their hope into dollars in order to make dreams come true.

At times during the 71 years since the school opened the town has paced the school. The university every now and then has hung on to the hands of Ottawa and has been fairly dragged along. Even so it could have found worse hands to grasp and that right here in Kansas, and Eastern Kansas too. In a less direct way, but just as powerful, the university has exerted a deep influence in the development of the town. It has been a steady cultural aid all through the years. And it has been of great financial benefit to the town. Ottawans have given much to the university but not nearly as much as Kansas Baptists have invested in their university at Ottawa. In that period of 71 years the expenditures of O. U. in the town have run up into millions of dollars—and that has been a vital help in making Ottawa the good business town that it is.

Townspole recognize that not only is the 33 acres of campus in the southeastern part of town one of the show places, but it is also one of the most valuable. The plant of Ottawa is worth $1,200,000 including the endowment. And that is an investment that is worth something to any community.

The instructional buildings of the university are far above the small college average. The university could use better housing facilities for student homes and that is one present hope that backers of the school have. Except for needed repairs and some remodeling the plant of the university otherwise is in excellent shape.

Business men who are organizing the coming drive for funds for the university speaking from a sound business standpoint believe that the school must have enough funds to maintain itself properly and make expansions which are necessary. It would be poor business for a town to let a million dollar plant be impaired.

O. U. BRINGS IN OVER $125,000

NEARLY ALL OF BUDGET IS EXPENDED HERE.

Over Half a Million is Invested in Real Estate—Bigger Budget
Would Benefit Community.

It is estimated by officials of Ottawa University that faculty members and students who do not live in Ottawa spend in the neighborhood of $100,000 annually here. This does not include amounts the students pay to the university in the form of tuition. This figure has been arrived at after several typical student budgets have been studied.

In addition to this figure the university spends practically all of its budget in Ottawa. The sum of $32,000 approximately goes for faculty salaries which are spent for the most part in Ottawa. The university maintenance budget of over $25,000 is practically all spent in Ottawa. At least 90 per cent of it is spent here. There are some things such as certain laboratory supplies that must be purchased elsewhere.

The combined spending of the university people and of the university amounts to $125,000, approximately. This, of course, represents a business that would not be present were it not for Ottawa University.

Another way in which the university is a financial asset is one which is seldom thought of. Practically all of the over $500,000 endowment is invested in Franklin county real estate.

Considered purely as a business asset the university has contributed a great deal to the prosperity of the community. It could be made more of an asset if it had money enough not only to maintain itself properly but have funds with which to make certain expansions. Improvements would mean more students and more spending, giving direct benefits to the community in a business way.

Every community interested in developing is anxious to bring business plants. Ottawa along with hundreds of other towns has offered inducements to industries knowing that the more commercial units a town has the better community business will be. It is just as plausible to assist local establishments in expanding as it is to bring new ones into the community. Every expansion that Ottawa University will make in the future will be reflected in an increased business in Ottawa.

Regard Ottawa University As Big Asset to Community

The following interviews regarding Ottawa University were secured in advance of the financial drive which opens next week to focus attention of local citizens on the value of the school to the community:

F. M. Harris—"I think Ottawa University is the biggest asset that Ottawa has, and that there could be no greater calamity to the town than to have the university close."

A. M. Gallatin—"I believe each individual and business of Ottawa should indorse Ottawa University with financial aid according to his or its ability. Dr. Martin unquestionably has a well defined program outlined whereby Ottawa University should forge ahead. In turn, Ottawa as a whole should benefit."

Dr. J. E. Wallen—"A good college of the proper type is an asset in this community. It gives the youngsters in this vicinity, especially the advantages of a college which many of them might otherwise miss. I believe the small college has its place."

SENIORS PAINT DOME

Work of O. U. Juniors Obliterated
Despite Zero Weather.

Despite sub-zero weather last night, the Ottawa University seniors climbed to the top of Taub Jones hall on the campus and daubed out "37" put there last week by the juniors, substituting for the figures their own class numerals, "36". It was too cold for much art work, but the figures are legible. The seniors had paint enough left to scatter "36" in several other places on the campus.

TO TELL WOMEN FACTS ABOUT

NO SOLICITATION AT ING WEDNESDAY

Neither Will Women Be A Work—Dr. Martin Will
on O. U. Objectives

"The Objectives of Ottawa University" will be the topic Andrew B. Martin's address at a mass meeting of Ottawans in the Chamber of Commerce meeting room in Masonic Wednesday afternoon. The meeting will not be a canvass and all women in town are invited.

No solicitation will be made by the women will not be a canvass since there is to be a house-to-house canvass connection with the drive next week. A. C. Carpenter, general chairman of the committee in charge this morning, "We feel everyone should know something about Ottawa University, and is doing at present and hopes to do in the future. Dr. Martin intends to give information along that line to the Wednesday afternoon. Women are not to be solicited in the campaign, it is highly important that they have the facts about the situation. Information about the university is received in a second hand way and is therefore not reliable but at the Wednesday meeting the ladies will have an opportunity to get the facts first hand. Dr. Martin is especially anxious to have the women interested in the university not only in the campaign but for all time."

Mrs. Harold J. Lamb has been appointed a member of the general committee and is going to get a large number of women present at the mass meeting Wednesday. The time was originally set for 3 o'clock but has been shifted to 3:30 in order to permit ladies of the North and First Baptist churches to attend that day in a joint session.

The general campaign committee is holding a meeting Wednesday afternoon to arrange the details for the campaign next week. The members of the committee are: Mr. Carpenter, J. L. Wassmer, A. E. Wilfong, Fockele, Mr. and Mrs. H. and G. M. Ross.

TO TELL WOMEN FACTS ABOUT O. U.

NO SOLICITATION AT MEETING WEDNESDAY.

Neither Will Women Be Asked To Work—Dr. Martin Will Speak on O. U. Objectives.

"The Objectives of Ottawa University" will be the topic of Dr. Andrew B. Martin's address before a mass meeting of Ottawa women in the Chamber of Commerce meeting room in Masonic temple Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. The meeting will not be very long and all women in town are invited.

No solicitation will be made and the women will not be asked to work since there is to be no house-to-house canvass in connection with the drive next week. A. C. Carpenter, general chairman of the committee in charge, said this morning, "We feel that everyone should know something about Ottawa University, what it is doing at present and what it hopes to do in the future. Dr. Martin intends to give information along that line to the women Wednesday afternoon. While the women are not to be solicited in the campaign, it is highly important that they have in mind the facts about the situation. So often information about the university is received in a second hand fashion and is therefore not accurate, but at the Wednesday conference the ladies will have an opportunity to get the facts first hand. Dr. Martin is especially anxious to have the women interested in the university not only during the campaign but for all time."

Mrs. Harold J. Lamb has been appointed a member of the general committee and is now working to get a large number of women present at the mass meeting Wednesday. The time which was originally set for 3 o'clock has been shifted to 3:30 in order to permit ladies of the North Ottawa and First Baptist churches, meeting that day in a joint session, to attend.

The general campaign committee is holding a meeting this afternoon to arrange the organization for the campaign next week. The members of the committee are: Mr. Carpenter, J. E. Colby, J. L. Wassmer, A. E. Willis, F. F. Fockele, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lamb and G. M. Ross.

O. U. DRIVE TO OPEN TUESDAY

FIVE TEAMS OF 10 EACH TO MAKE CANVASS.

General Committee and Teams Will Meet Monday Night To Work Out Details.

The Ottawa University drive for $10,000 will open next Tuesday morning. The general committee and five teams will hold a dinner Monday evening at which time the details of the drive will be explained and the solicitation work divided. This was decided at a meeting of the general committee yesterday afternoon. Chairman A. C. Carpenter believes there is fine enthusiasm for the drive. Everyone seems to be ready to give every assistance possible even though many merchants are busy with inventories.

The five team captains selected are Harold J. Lamb, J. L. Wassmer, John Kaiser, Henry Colby and Edmund Lister. Each captain will select 10 members for his team.

At the meeting Monday night Dr. Andrew B. Martin, president of O. U., will tell the workers of the objectives of the university. M. H. Forester, Mr. Carpenter and others will give the men pointers on the plan of the campaign and the reasons why Ottawans should attend the school.

Donations in the campaign will be accepted in cash or in six monthly payments. The committee felt yesterday that securing the $10,000 goal would be easier if donors were allowed to pay their contributions over a period of a half year.

Mr. Carpenter at the meeting yesterday stressed the fact that the money secured in the present campaign was not to be used in payment of old debts. It will be used to pay present current expenses and to furnish funds whereby the school can expand next year. At least one new instructor must be added to the staff. The work of the economics and sociology department is at the present time divided among instructors in other departments.

The following interviews regarding Ottawa University were secured in advance of the financial drive which opens next week to focus attention of local citizens on the value of the school to the community:

W. E. Bancroft.—There is no question that Ottawa University is the outstanding institution in this community. It is worthwhile as a business enterprise in Ottawa and as an advertisement of value outside of this vicinity.

NEW SEMESTER OPENS MONDAY

O. U. STUDENTS FINISHED THEIR EXAMS. TODAY

Expansion of O. U. Courses Next Fall Will Depend On Success of Money Drive

The second semester will open at Ottawa University next Monday. Students completed final examinations today and have the rest of the week in which to recuperate and get ready for the next session which will close the latter part of May.

Dr. Andrew B. Martin, president, said this morning that the enrollment is not expected to change very much. Several students will drop out of school due to financial or scholastic difficulties, but there will be a few new students to balance the decrease.

No changes are being made in the curriculum, it being Dr. Martin's idea to operate the school this year as it was started last fall.

Changes and developments which are to be made next fall will depend to a large extent on the success of the campaign for funds which begins in Ottawa next week. Dr. Martin this morning stressed the fact that much of this money will be used to make possible certain expansions for the next school year.

A. C. Carpenter, chairman of the local committee, is busy this week completing the organization work for the drive and says that the members of the five teams have almost all been selected. There are 10 men to each team.

The drive will receive its official send-off at a banquet Monday night for the general committee and the team members. Dr. Martin, Mr. Carpenter, M. H. Forester and others at that time will give the workers suggestive methods of approaching prospective contributors. All workers will be given mimeographed copies of "Why Give to Ottawa University."

JAN. 22, 1936

J. L. Shelden—Ottawa university is the community's most valuable asset not supported by taxes. It takes the place of a junior college which would have to be financed through taxation. In addition to making higher education available to youth, the university gives the town a priceless cultural and religious background.

Edmund Lister—Ottawa university brings to Ottawa, at a fair estimate, 250 of our best citizens who spend many thousands of dollars with our business houses annually. The university gives the young people of Kansas many opportunities that would not otherwise be theirs, and places Ottawa in a position second to none in eastern Kansas as an educational and business center.

O. U. ATTRACTS HOME STUDENTS

A LARGE NUMBER HAVE TAKEN ADVANTAGE.

Opportunity To Go to College and Remain at Home Appeals to Many Students.

Year after year ever since its beginning in 1865 Ottawa University has been a vital part of the educational facilities in Ottawa and Franklin county. This year about 120 students from the county are taking advantage of the opportunity for higher education offered at home.

It is estimated that since the beginning of the university no less than 2,000 Ottawans have been benefitted by the university for a year or longer. Counting students who did not finish their 4-year courses almost 6,000 students have attended O. U. in the 71-year period.

The service the university has rendered to Ottawans has been varied. To a large number it has meant four years of education and a college degree when that would not otherwise have been possible. To others it has meant the opportunity to go to college and at the same time stay at home. These people have gone out into all walks of life, some of them attaining high positions. All of them have been better off for having obtained a college education.

This education would not have been possible had Ottawa not had a university. A junior college is at best only a substitute for a 4-year university and in no way attempts to offer a complete college education.

Not only has the university provided local young people the opportunity for a higher education, it has also served the community in many other ways. Seldom does a week pass in which the music department of the school is not called on for special music for various occasions. The department also presents many programs during the year which give Ottawans opportunity to hear classical music productions. The choir and orchestra as well as other ensembles are community assets. The university faculty is called on frequently to speak and to lead discussion groups at various times during the year.

A. C. Carpenter, chairman of the financial campaign which is to start next week, announced this morning that the dinner for the committee and solicitors will be held Monday night at 6:30 in the Nelson hotel. There are five teams of 10 members each. They will start work Tuesday morning. Mr. Carpenter said today he hoped men asked to serve as workers would not turn down the captains.

Dr. Andrew B. Martin yesterday spoke before a large group of women in the Chamber of Commerce meeting room. Over 100 women were present.

The following interviews regarding Ottawa University were secured in advance of the financial drive which opens next week to focus attention of local citizens on the value of the school to the community:

J. G. Kaiser—Another advantage of the university, noticed in contrast with those towns which do not have the advantages of such an institution, is its influence in helping build a town of permanent, attractive residences. Others notice it, and the advertising value is more than we know.

Mrs. R. S. Gault, Richmond—Ottawa University's democratic spirit has a strong appeal. It is free of student cliques that add to the expense of attendance. O. U. offers a good college course at a minimum of cost.

Harold J. Lamb—Ottawa University is more than a financial asset to Ottawa. It is a school of learning of the highest standard. Its influence for good is being felt in almost every country in the world. Long may it survive and prosper!

Regard Ottawa University Big Asset to Community

The following interviews regarding Ottawa University were secured in advance of the financial drive which opens next week to focus attention of local citizens on the value of the school to the community:

A. F. Converse, Wellsville.—A college like Ottawa University is a convenience to the surrounding community that is much appreciated. Students may attend college and be at home oftener.

G. H. Marshall.—Ottawa university is an asset to the city of Ottawa culturally, financially and educationally. Anyone coming to Ottawa from a non-college town can readily detect the difference in the cultural tone of the community. Financially the benefit is not from the students alone, but from the permanent additions to the population which have come about because of the university. The value of Christian education cannot be over-emphasized. Ottawa university gives that kind of education. The educational value of the college is continuous over the years and affects not only Ottawa but the whole state, and in the nation at large Ottawa's graduates occupy prominent places.

SMALL COLLEGE HAS ITS PLACE

SO ALSO HAVE STATE SCHOOLS, DR. MARTIN HOLDS

Neither Type Could Take Care of All Students—Small School Has a Definite Field.

"There is a definite place in our American educational plan for college such as Ottawa University," Dr. Andrew B. Martin, president of O. U., commented this morning. "As far as that is concerned there is a definite need for all types of schools that we now have in the higher education field. All universities are filling some need or the American public probably would not be supporting them by taxes or by contributions.

"Large state universities such as K. U., are vital institutions in the democratic educational policy of the nation. Denominational colleges could not begin to take care of the large number of students now attending these state universities. And it is also true that the state schools are equipped to give many courses and many types of instruction that the denominational schools obviously are not able to give.

"The Christian college, however, makes distinct contributions within the field of higher education that cannot be allowed to die out. Such a school obviously has much in common with the state and private institutions but it differs from them in the fact that it seeks to maintain a deliberate Christian aim throughout its entire program. It is also able, due to a smaller enrollment, to give more individual attention to students than is possible where enrollments are large and class rooms and laboratories crowded.

"We believe that Ottawa University with its objectives set for the Christian emphasis, individual attention to students, and thorough going policy of efficient teaching with schools like it will soon occupy an even greater place in our American educational plan than it already does."

F. F. Fockele.—I think Ottawa University is a fine school. It is a fine thing for us to think there is a mighty atmosphere around the school. If I thought otherwise I would have two fine youngsters who would be attending school there.

J. L. Wassmer.—An institution in which the university of Ottawa is in the family. I come here to educate my children and in most cases I have home here from them. I have added to the money which the students spend themselves quite a sum and it would be missed if the university were here. The advertising value of Ottawa by the university teams and outstanding athletes developed here would be bought by any amount of money. This helps bring money to Ottawa and the university, including many families.

The following interview regarding Ottawa University was secured in advance of the financial drive which opens next week to focus attention of local citizens on the value of the school to the community:

F. R. Bennett.—Timothy For 71 years many people have given much in energy for Ottawa University whose value to Ottawa is beyond question. Every person will question the value of the university and insist promptly with support as they are able. I save the time of the present campaign for Ottawa University over emergency.

E. E. Stone.—Ottawa University is not only a help from an educational and cultural standpoint, but it helps keep the young people in the community entertained and occupied along with their studies which might not be the case if the town did not have a large number of students. The basketball game Friday night is just one illustration.

J. E. Colby.—Ottawa University must be alert to the financial drive which starts to focus attention on the importance of the university. If they will add themselves with the rest of the school there is no reason why the drive need miss its purpose. Perhaps some are not to the benefits of a kind over the junior high school which would add to the taxes.

The following interviews regarding Ottawa University were secured in advance of the financial drive which opens next week to focus attention of local citizens on the value of the school to the community:

F. R. Bennett.—Time is money. For 71 years many good people have given much in time and energy for Ottawa University whose value to Ottawa no thinking person will question. It behooves everyone who can to assist promptly with such financial aid as they are able, in order to save the time of the workers in the present campaign and help Ottawa University over its present emergency.

E. E. Stone.—Ottawa University not only is a help to the city from an educational, financial and cultural standpoint, but also helps keep the young folks of our community entertained and occupied along desirable lines, which might not be true if the town did not have a college. The large number of students at the basketball game Friday night is just one illustration.

J. E. Colby.—Ottawa citizens must be alert to the financial drive which starts tomorrow, realizing the importance of the benefits derived from Ottawa University. If they will acquaint themselves with the values of the school there is no reason why the drive need miss its goal. I believe perhaps some are not informed as to the benefits of a school of this kind over the junior college type which would add much to local taxes.

GOOD PROSPECT FOR O. U. DRIVE

WORKERS HOPE GIVERS WILL BE GENEROUS

Final Plans Will Be Made At a Dinner Tonight Attended By Members of the Teams

"If everyone will give according to his enthusiasm, we ought to reach our goal quickly," said A. C. Carpenter this morning in speaking of the O. U. finance campaign that is to be launched this evening at a dinner for the committee and soliciting teams. "Everyone is feeling quite optimistic," Mr. Carpenter further commented, "and we are finding plenty of people willing to work even though it is a difficult time for some merchants to take time off. Inventories and sales are making it hard for many to find extra time."

Tonight at the banquet the workers will hear Dr. Andrew B. Martin, Mr. Carpenter, M. H. Forester and others who will make short talks. The active solicitation will start in the morning. The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 at the Nelson hotel.

Mr. Carpenter again stressed the fact that donations may be distributed over a period of six months. That plan will make it easier on the donors.

Headquarters for the campaign will be in the Gas Service company office. There a big thermometer will register the progress of the drive.

The captains and their teams: Edmund Lister, Capt.—O. L. Hankins, Fred Fiehler, Ben Bowers, J. J. Foote, C. M. Sheldon, C. T. Geiger, C. W. Hegberg, Fred R. Nuzman, George H. Marshall.

J. E. Colby, Capt.—W. D. Bancroft, Randolph Bundy, Pete Howell, Tom Flory, Marion Hume, Joe Foote, Bob Latimer, L. H. Dalton.

H. J. Lamb, Capt.—Murray Ross, Harry Woods, Hale Blair, Basil Kelsey, J. W. King, H. C. Constant, Walter A. Rose, Judge C. H. Owen, Ruel Mitchell, P. O. Hegberg.

John Kaiser, Capt.—Frank Jones, Hobart Parks, Howard McGee, Stewart Humphreys, G. D. Wellepp, Ralph Curby, Will Swift, John Lawrence, Sam Hubbard, Ralph Capron.

J. L. Wassmer, Capt.—C. M. Ott, George Spears, Ralph Hanes, Art Stephenson, A. M. Gallatin, Glen Spears, Earle Bigler, Garland Elliott, C. E. Reinhart, Ed Dorrel.

Ottawa Glad for His Promotion, But Sorry To Have Him Leave.

Coach Charles D. Errickson of Ottawa University, who has resigned his position to accept the basketball coaching job at Washburn college, effective July 1, is already receiving long distance telephone calls and other congratulations from friends all over the state. They began coming in last evening immediately after evening papers were distributed over the state.

Friends in Ottawa expressed themselves as being glad that Dee has a better position and one more to his liking, but all were quite sorry that he is leaving Ottawa.
