

FACE HARD GAME

O. U. Braves Meet McPherson
Bulldogs in Conference Tilt
Tonight at McPherson.

The Ottawa University football team, fired by an enthusiastic pep chapel this morning, left for McPherson where it will meet the McPherson Bulldogs in a Kansas conference football game tonight. It is the opening conference game for both teams and it is expected it will be a hard fought affair. Since rains as heavy as those in Ottawa fell in McPherson the field is sure to be either sloshy or heavy with mud. The Ottawans took along their rain pants and mud cleats.

A large number of Ottawans including the O. U. band went to McPherson this afternoon to be on hand for the opening whistle and help the Braves. Coach Richard Godlove reported this morning that the team is in excellent physical shape with none of the players having any serious or handicapping injuries.

The Ottawa University backfield will probably include Oliver Smith at quarterback, Bill Mattis and Eugene Harding at halfbacks, and Paul Dietrich at fullback. The line will include Dave Conley and Arnold Allen at ends, Leonard Hofstra and Bob Harrop at tackles, George Lister and John Haley at guards and Cecil Smith at center.

The team will return in the morning. Result of the game may be had by calling 186, the North American hotel coffee shop.

Pep Chapel.—A short pep chapel was held at Ottawa university this morning in preparation for the Ottawa-McPherson football game tonight. Ricks Matdson, head of the student pep organization, was in charge. The girl's pep organization gave a short skit and Attorney Bert E. Newland spoke. Classes were cut short at the university this morning so that those who wished to go to McPherson had plenty of time to get there.

HELD OPEN HOUSE

The young women students of Ottawa University who make their home at Charlton Cottage held their annual open house Saturday night. Students, faculty and board members formed the list of three hundred guests, who were invited for three different hours, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock. The rooms were decorated with many baskets of zinnias and sunflowers. Receiving with the various groups of Cottage girls during the evening were the sponsor, Miss Lulu Brown; the house mother Mrs. Maud Goll and Miss Minnie Macaulay, dean of women at Ottawa University. Mr. Ricks Matdson announced the guests. Music was furnished by the Cottage girls orchestra. Refreshments of punch and wafers were served.

PRIME FOR COYOTES

O. U. Braves Trying To Strengthen Weaknesses Disclosed in McPherson Game.

Friday the Ottawa University football team will journey to Salina where they will meet Kansas Wesleyan in a night Kansas conference gridiron game. The Salina team is doped to win the conference crown this year and will give the Braves a real battle. Dave Conley, freshman punter injured in the McPherson game, will be out of the game due to a knee injury.

This week the Ottawans are working hard to try to bolster up the weak points which showed in the game with the McPherson Bulldogs. Defense around the ends and the pass defense will be improved if it is possible as will several other phases of the team play.

While outgained at McPherson the locals still do not think they were swamped. Breaks in the form of fumbles and intercepted passes at strategic times worked against them.

The boys do think, however, the Bulldogs have a strong team. Perhaps not strong enough to win a championship, but a fast and hustling squad. More than likely both Kansas Wesleyan and Baker will be able to bottle up the offensive thrusts of the Bulldogs and it is a conceded fact that McPherson can be easily scored against.

Wesleyan is expected to feature, as usual, the powerhouse attack hammering off-tackle with a few end runs and passes for variety. Everyone knows this is the type of ball the Coyotes play, but for the past few years the western team has been the bell cow of the Kansas conference as far as offenses are concerned. They do play tricky football, they drive and drive until the other team cracks up. Coach A. B. Mackie has the sort of players, as a rule, who can ably do that sort of thing.

Ottawa should give the Coyotes a battle and might even stage a surprising performance. The players are young, but they have ability and once they click they can go places. After having an off day at McPherson the boys may be "on" their game once more and play heads-up football at Salina.

October 23 Southwestern comes to Ottawa for a night game.

O. U. Musicians on Program at Coffeyville Tomorrow Night.

Tomorrow the Ottawa University orchestra and choir under direction of Prof. Everett Fetter and Prof. Edgar D. Kerr will go to Coffeyville, where they will be heard tomorrow night in a concert at the Kansas Baptist Convention. About 75 members of the two groups will make the trip.

Dr. Andrew B. Martin and Dr. Rollo C. Speer are attending the convention and expect to return to Ottawa late Thursday. Claude Webb of the university staff went to Coffeyville today to show motion pictures at the session this evening.

Weak Spots Being Bolstered
O. U. for Wesleyan Game
Injuries Also Create a Problem

The Ottawa University team will face Kansas Wesleyan supposedly the strongest team in the Kansas conference, a Friday night with several changes. David Conley, freshman punter, will be out with an injured knee. Bill Mattis may be out with a strained shoulder.

In order to strengthen the spots Coach Richard Godlove is making several shifts. Lining he worked Dietrich, who has been playing fullback, at end. Put big Leonard Hofstra in at tackle, to the left position.

The problem which faces is who to start. With Ley and Mattis out he is pressed for backfield men. More than likely the backfield will include Don Lyle Swetnam, Oliver Smith, Eugene Harding. The latter, however, has a leg injury which may handicap him somewhat. It is uncertain as to who will start in the line, according to Godlove.

Practice this week has centered around end defensive work, gaining power on offensive line. Since the Coyotes have a powerhouse attack it is expected the line will have a good night. More than likely the line will use about 13 linemen in a game in an effort to throw the jabs of the Wesleyan team.

The Salina boys have been working hard, for they never count an Ottawa team, in addition a little later they Hardin-Simmons College happens this year to be one of the strongest teams in Texas.

Practice this week has centered around end defensive work and gaining power on offensive play. Since the Coyotes have such a powerhouse attack it is expected the line will have a gruelling night. O. U. Drubbed By Fast Wesleyan Team

Braves Outgained in Scrimmage, But Opponents' Fast Backs Could Not Be Stopped.

Kansas Wesleyan University last night submerged Ottawa University in a Kansas conference football game, 38 to 0, at Salina.

All that can be said of the Wesleyan grid team is that it is composed of a bunch of alert, fast stepping players who watch like hawks for breaks and then convert each break into a score. Incidentally if there are no breaks Wesleyan makes them.

The first touchdown by the smart running Morris was no break. He grabbed the opening kickoff and trotted down the east side of the field behind excellent interference 95 yards for the opening score. A few minutes later this same man intercepted an Ottawa pass and raced 50 yards for a touchdown. The third touchdown came five plays later with Morgan, crack end for Wesleyan, who came in to block a punt and cover it for a touchdown. All that before the end of the first quarter.

The alert Wesleyan team continued its march in the second quarter when Shaw intercepted Swetnam's pass and ran 20 yards for a score. Near the last play of the half Walsh passed to Mitchell for the only touchdown Wesleyan made from scrimmage plays. The last of the Coyote scores came in the last quarter when Morgan smashed his way through the line and blocked a punt and Baer grabbed it to run for a touchdown.

To say that Wesleyan was not the better team on the field last night would be stretching the truth with reckless abandon. But to say that the Braves did not play some good football would also be untruthful. They cut and slashed at the Wesleyan line, and while they were never masters of the situation they did outgain the Coyotes in plays from scrimmage. They bottled up the Coyotes on almost every running play.

Perhaps a new running star hove into the limelight for O. U. last night and that was Joe Lynch who gained a lot of ground through the Wesleyan tackles last night. Teaming with Bill Mattis he gained many yards in the last half and gave indication of being a brilliant ball lugger before the season is over.

The Wesleyan team, which by the way has its share of weight, is a great football team from many angles. The Coyotes defeated the strong Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers in the same way that they defeated Ottawa. Once a team has the ball back in its own territory they get rough and start looking for passes to intercept and punts to block. On those plays last night which found them taking advantage of a break the interference formed quickly and sped aggressively down the field and it took a lot of power to block them out. Undoubtedly the Wesleyan crew is the most powerful in the conference. They have 25 excellent football players including a set of 10 backs that would do any college or university justice. The fact of the matter is that some of the larger schools in the state could well be happy with a few of those Coyote backs. They are big, powerful and above all else, fast and shifty. Coach A. B. Mackie has some big teams on his schedule—Hardin-Simmons of

O. U. SPIRIT HIGH

Hope To Beat Southwestern Here Friday Night With a Ground Game Against Passes.

The Ottawa University football team with its spirits not in the least dampened will meet Southwestern College Friday night on the home field at 7:45.

With the exception of David Conley who is still nursing an injured knee the Braves will have their football machine in good order, ready to do everything possible to block scoring threats of the team which last season tied for the championship of the Central conference.

More than likely Southwestern will bring an attack by the air. Last week, playing against Emporia Teachers, the Winfield boys threw 38 passes—a new Central conference record—and completed 19 of them for 196 yards and two touchdowns. They were beaten 31 to 13 but made it tough going for the Teachers. Their attack will probably be much the same against Ottawa.

It is definitely sure that the Braves will not throw 38 passes. They probably will not throw more than eight, if that many. The boys will restrict their gaining to ground work. After having several passes intercepted this season the boys say to keep your feet on the ground and the ball right with you. Even the supposedly powerful Wesleyan line did not throw back the Braves—they trundled right on through on many occasions.

Southwestern has a fast charging line—light but quick on the trigger when it comes to getting across the line of scrimmage. In an effort to hold down running plays the Winfield team plays a 7-man defensive line and then usually puts two line backers right up in the line of scrimmage making an 8 or 9-man line. The Braves, however, hope to have a remedy for that sort of thing. The one big thing that is weighing up on the minds of the locals is the passing attack of Southwestern. They believe they can win if they are successful in bottling up the Winfield passing.

The game will be played on Cook field beginning at 7:45. Tickets will be 55 cents and reserves 75 cents. They are on sale at the Davis-Wassmer clothing store.

Expect Southwestern to Use Open Game Friday Night.

The Braves, as far as they are concerned, have decided that this forward passing business is no good. Too many of their forward flips have been intercepted. Their slogan is, "Stick to the ground and keep the ball with you."

The weights of the teams will be fairly even with Southwestern having a slight advantage due to Baltzell's 225 pounds at center. Their speed is about even but the Southwestern team evidently charges a bit faster. The backfields of the two teams should be about even with the exception that Southwestern probably has a much better passing attack.

If Ottawa is able to hold the Southwestern passing attack in check the game should be fairly even; but if the Southwestern passes click, then the game may be a walkaway for the men from Winfield.

everyone seems to be asking over coffee cups or wash tubs. How could a team outgain an opponent and still be beaten by five touchdowns? That is exactly what happened at Salina last Friday night. In solving the mystery, first let it be said that Wesleyan is a better team than the Braves regardless of how many breaks they may have secured, but they certainly are not five touchdowns better. The Ottawans have a hustling crew and if

ON PASS DEFENSE

O. U. Squad Had a Hard Workout
Last Night, Anticipating
Southwestern's Strength.

A light ray of hope gleamed out from the Ottawa University football squad yesterday afternoon as they worked hard and late for the game here with Southwestern Friday night on Cook field. The boys looked better than ever before this season on pass defense.

Starting with the old, old idea that the best pass defense is to smear the passer, the Ottawans did just that in practice. Furthermore the secondary pass defense was alert in intercepting and knocking down pass after pass.

And this is a fact—the boys actually completed a pass or two during the long afternoon workout. But fans should not be alarmed, because Coach Richard M. Godlove said last night in an official statement that more than likely the boys would not even flip one pass—well, maybe he will let the boys sling one, just one.

The Southwestern line, which will outweigh Ottawa's forward wall, is pesky when it comes to charging. They have a remarkable ability to get across the line of scrimmage. Especially is this true of Baltzell, big 225-pound center, who literally rams his way back into the enemy backfield. It is a kind thing to warn the Braves that plays which start slowly are apt to be smeared a thousand ways to sunrise by the big fellow.

Plenty of hustle and bustle will be the keynote of the Braves' play Friday night. There will also be an intention to prevent Southwestern from getting any fortunate breaks. As one boy said, "If they beat us it will be on straight football, because we are not going to give the game to them on a silver platter."

Tickets for the game are on sale at Davis-Wassmer Clothing store. They should be purchased early in order to avoid crowds at the gate.

IN ANNUAL RECITAL

Three Members of O. U. Music Faculty Appear Tuesday Night

The annual Ottawa University music faculty recital which is to be held next Tuesday evening at 8:15 in First Methodist church is attracting more attention than usual due to the fact all three members of the music faculty studied away from Ottawa this last summer.

Dr. Harry E. Cooper, head of the department and instructor in piano and organ, will open the recital by playing Mozart's "Concerto in D. major" accompanied by a string orchestra under the direction of Prof. Everett S. Fetter. Dr. Cooper studied under the renowned Guy Wietz in London last summer. His second appearance on the program will be to play a group of organ numbers composed by Mr. Wietz.

Following Dr. Cooper's first number Prof. Edgar D. Kerr who studied last summer at the Westminster choir school in Massachusetts will sing a group of baritone solos. Later in the recital he will sing another group of selections.

Braves Will Hang Onto the Ball Tonight and Try To Block Southwestern's Passes.

Typical football weather today is adding interest to the Ottawa University - Southwestern football game which is to be played tonight at 7:45 on Cook field. Two teams with neither holding an edge in the early dope, will be out on the gridiron and the clash is sure to be full of excitement because of the different types of play used by the two teams.

Southwestern brings to Ottawa a passing attack that has caused everyone in the state to sit up and take notice. It will be sort of an aerial circus when Southwestern has the ball. But the Ottawa Braves are hoping to block out the Builders' passers with an air-tight defense. It never has been air-tight; however, the locals feel that they may have a more efficient system tonight.

The Braves will keep the ball right with them when it is in their possession. "We will not throw any passes tonight," said Coach Richard Godlove. "If we cannot gain yardage on running plays then we at least will not lose the ball to Southwestern."

The lineup for the Braves will be Von Arb and Harding at ends, Harrop and Pitts at tackles, Haley and Lister at guards, Maloney at center, Oliver Smith at quarterback, Mattis and Lynch at halfbacks, and Donald Hough at fullback. Insertion of Harding at end, Maloney at center and Lynch at halfback is a new feature in the starting lineup.

The Southwestern lineup will be Brown and MacDonald, ends; Young and Krell, tackles; Philippi and Dougherty, guards; Baltzell, center; Bratcher, quarterback; Woodard and Webb, halfbacks, and Mayse, fullback.

Into the lineup of Southwestern some time during the game will enter one George Washington, a Negro lad from Hoisington. He is a fast man in the backfield. It was he who trotted some 55 yards on a cutback for a touchdown against Ottawa last fall. Fans will take one good look at Baltzell, Southwestern's 225-pound center, and then fear the worst.

The Braves are making no promises or predictions. Dwight Ream, E. A. Thomas and Ab Hinshaw will be the officials. Tickets will be on sale at the Davis-Wassmer clothing store until 6 p. m. and at the gate about 7 o'clock. General admission is 55 cents and reserved seats are 75 cents.

Southwestern Edged Out Braves in Story Book Fashion, in Last Play of Game.

Ottawa University lost a story book game 3 to 6 to Southwestern College last night on Cook field. Woodard of Southwestern stepped back on his 21-yard line and tossed a pass to Gillespie who wiggled his way across the goal line on the very last play of the game. It broke the hearts of a large crowd of Ottawa fans who were hoping that the locals would hold out for a victory.

The game was a see-saw affair fiercely fought by both teams. Several breaks gave both teams constant advantages but there was no scoring until the fourth quarter. Ottawa drove down to the Southwestern 6-yard line and being unable to cross on three tries the Braves decided to place-kick. George Von Arb booted the ball held by Lyle Swetnam on the 15-yard line. It sailed directly between the goal posts from a difficult angle to score 3 points giving Ottawa a decided advantage.

Southwestern came back and after an exchange of punts drove down to the 5-yard line where the Braves held them on downs. The locals carried the ball three times and lacked a first down by only six inches. Bill Mattis stepped back to punt and the ball took a bad slice and went out on the 21-yard line. Southwestern with time for only one play completed the touchdown pass over center.

It was a crushing defeat and the fans filed out of the stands in a funeral procession hardly aware of the last minute drama which by all odds should have been a story or a dream and never a fact.

The game was not without its points. It was played fairly even with Ottawa holding a slight advantage. The far famed passing attack of the Southwestern team was held down fairly well. Ottawa intercepted four of the flips at strategic times.

The ground gaining star for the Braves was Joe Lynch who trotted and drove off-tackle for many a yard last night. He was given able assistance by Bill Mattis, Don Hough and Paul Dietrich.

Quite often the Ottawa line played superb ball both on offense and defense. Holes were opened up and a stubborn resistance was dealt out at proper times.

Next week the Braves will play Baker at Baldwin on Friday afternoon. Ottawa officials were invited to change the date to Saturday but due to several boys working here on Saturday it was impossible to make the change.
