

This drawing, by a current counselee of mine, gives occasion for meditation/discussion of "the way of seeing the world" definition of philosophy/religion/health. Write quick answers to the following:

1. How old is the person? Any particular attitudes toward age and/or aging?
2. Which sex, and why do you think so?
3. Any relationship with your knowledge of brain physiology and mind research?
4. What psychological terms would you use in describing this person?
5. What religious terms would you use in describing this person?
6. What vocabulary/action do you think might be indicated?
7. What can the church do for such a person?
