* * * * * At my suggestion, Mel saw Chaim Stern [editor of the four new Jewish prayerbooks], who is putting this one into one of the prayerbooks...."Bouquet" reminds me of the little flower in Picasso's "Guernica"--improved here by no longer being lonely.

2 condemned prisoners await execution

[Mel suggested to me, "a concentration camp."]

M: There's so little time left
W: So little...
M: I wonder if any others survived
W: It's possible
M: But not likely?
W: As you say...
(They explore cell)
M: There's no escape possible
W: None?
M: None...
(They kiss)
W: How soon?
M: Anytime now
W: We should leave some... mark
M: (Laughs) For whom?
W: Who can say? (She chawks a tiny flower on wall)
M: Is that it?
W: (Softly) It could be...
M: (He chawks one also) (They embrace)
