

The KEY

Number 1 Monday, March 22, 1971

Welcome From The Key

Welcome to Houston - the booming, bustling, city of oil wells, astronauts, moon-shots, winding mazes of concrete ribbons, beautiful women, moonshine, and a fine university. The whole is American phenomenon - only in America ____.

The Key is the official organ of the convention and is published (?) to keep you informed during the convention. Many items of importance cannot be presented during business meetings and therefore will find their way to you in these pages. We hope also to print little interesting sidelights and personal items for your enlightenment and amusement. We invite you to submit news and anecdotes to the staff members of The Key.

The Co-Editors are Gil Rau, Frank Alusow, John Burt, Robert Tice, Karen Marshall, and John Cliff. Contributions are solicited and welcome. The Key office is in the Federal Room, University Center.

It is the wish of the staff of The Key that this convention will be everything that everyone hoped for.

Editorial Guideline For The Key

The Key shall be published daily throughout the National Convention. It is designed to contain official announcements, agendas for Convention meetings, agendas for student meetings, business to be considered, general news, human interest items, and other materials suitable to promote the affairs of PKD at this National Convention.

On April 23-24, Frostburg State College will be hosting the 4th annual Allegheny Individual Events Tournament. At this time twenty schools have accepted invitations. This tournament promised to be the best.

Our coach, Miss Ann Williams attended her first PKD tournament with the Bowling Green State University with past national president, Dr. Raymond Yeager.
