

Computer Use and File Sharing

Currently under review are several products designed to deter illegal peer-to-peer file sharing using the University's information technology information system. Some of these products act as firewalls allowing the University to throttle bandwidth on peer-to-peer sites and thus making it almost impossible to pass that volume of traffic. Other products are designed to monitor the use of bandwidth and report violations.